Dear Kimberly:

Now aren't you sorry you made that offer!

I have rifled my files and sent you anything I thought you might find interesting or relevant. I apologize for the repetition. I was learning as I went along and writing about it to clarify my thinking, so some is pretty rough.

If, after surveying this bundle, you decide that you would rather not take it on, just let me know. And this holds for any point in the process. There will be no hard feelings—collecting all this stuff was fun and reminded me of times past.

Good luck!
